

Driftwood

Deepen the feeling with coloured oil

The earthy, deep, and greyish brown tone of this colour conjures an image of natural rusticity with a modern twist. While being more cool than warm, it gives a sense of calmness and tranquility that is both comforting and grounding. The understated elegance of this shade can add a sophisticated and organic touch to any living space. This colour creates a space that is both inviting and welcoming. Whether used in a minimalist or traditional interior design style, this color offers a depth and richness that is both stunning and enduring.

The treatment is done on white oak floors and can vary in tones and look depending on what type of wood and condition of the floor.*
